BEAUTIFUL BROWS

Neatly groomed brows are always in, but before you reach for your tweezers, take heed: Beauty experts caution against overplucking, which means you should avoid the magnifying mirror. "Magnifying mirrors lead to mistakes. You become too focused on the individual brow rather than your face overall," explains Giovanni & Pileggi's in-house makeup artist Robby Nelson. Nelson suggests applying a warm compress over your brows to open pores, and then gently pulling skin taut as you pluck, concentrating on building an arch at the brow bone. For thin eyebrows, Nelson swipes on Chanel's Le Crayon Sourcils Precision Brow Definer to create the illusion of fullness. "Brows can really alter your expression and enhance your facial features," says Nelson. Giovanni & Pileggi, 256 S. 16th St., 215-568-3040—K.D.M.
