Colorists for Going Red

From soft strawberry blonde to rich burgundy, the year's hottest hair hue is red. Christy Stefanelli of Salon Norman-Dee (2550 Grant Ave.; salonnormande.com) explains that shades in the copper-red family look most natural on green- or blue-eyed people. Dark-eyed beauties desiring a fiery mane should go for a deeper ruby-red shade. Glazes between touch-ups keep any shade of rouge fresh. Martino Cartier, of the eponymous Cherry Hill salon (3902 Rte. 70 E., Cherry Hill; martinocartier.com), recommends avoiding vibrant, deep red tones like eggplant and cherry bark—those colors aren't found on natural redheads. He uses color by Wella, stepping a medium brown shade up a notch or two with a coppery red and adding peekaboo highlights for subtle depth. Joe Matteo, colorist at Richard Nicholas Hair Studio (1716 Sansom St.; richardnicholas.com), emphasizes the importance of matching hair to skin tone when trying a new color: Lighter skin means warmer shades, while dark complexions should choose cooler hues.
